

Extreme team building 24/09/07

Staff at Lee Evans Partnership have just experienced the exhilaration and excitement of a corporate activity day at The Whackysports Company based in the heart of the Kent country side in Headcorn, near Maidstone.

Activities on offer included quad biking through challenging off-road woodland, Power Turn slalom and Honda Pilot racing plus the more leisurely pursuits of shooting and archery.

Highly competitive but fun the day was both mentally and physically demanding. Five teams battled it out for the Victor's Cup which was finally won by The Magnificent Seven: (Neil Herron, Paul Bushell, Ian Minter, Colin Rose, Andrew Jackson, Matt Newton and Neil Franklin).

Magnificent Neil Herron was also named Sports Person of the Day and took the prize for the fastest speed on the Honda Pilots. The day's Power Turn slalom champion, Rebecca Hobbs, proved that the women's touch was just what was needed to control these fiendish motors and crack shot John Minter won the shooting prize. Best Spectator went to Duncan Richardson who was forced to sit out the day's events due to a shoulder injury.
