Discovery (Community) Primary School's Proposed Expansion (02/05/07)

Planning Permission is now being sought for Phase Three of the purpose-built Discovery (Community) Primary School, in Kings Hill, Kent.

The school, which opened in September 2003, was designed by Lee Evans Partnership to be developed in three stages so that its intake could grow to meet the demands of the expanding Kings Hill community.

The proposed third phase will blend in seamlessly with the existing buildings and create a two form entry school in time for the academic year 2008/9. The additional accommodation will include six classrooms as well as a care suite, staff and administrative areas, changing rooms and shared working areas.

To ensure the new development maintains the original design ethic, wherever possible, the materials used, the elevations and sections will reflect the existing school building.

Client: Kent County Council
